A very sad death occurred in this town last Monday, a young man came here about three weeks ago representing the Chicago Portrait Company, and obtained board with Mrs. S. A. Nelson. His name was M. J. McVee. He came here complaining and he gradually grew worse, until he was stricken down with a malady—meningitis, which deprived him of his reason, and made him a pitiful object. Mrs. Nelson and those who live with her did all in their power for the stranger. Rev. P. B. Wells and Dr. Charles E. Geiger visited him regularly, and when it was discovered that his illness was likely to prove fatal, the mails and telegraph wires were used to find his people, that they might learn his condition. When at last his folks were found in Ashford, Alabama, it was learned that he had an aged father who could not come on. When the young man died, the information was wired, and instructions came to ship the body which was done. The deceased had every attention that sympathetic people could give.

REPORT ON COTTON. A New Feature To Secure Quickly Accurate Statistics of the Cotton Crop.

Mr. Joseph T. Stokes, of Manning, has been appointed a local special agent of the Census Office to collect cotton ginning statistics for this county, and we join the Government in urging the ginners to give Mr. Stokes their hearty support and co-operation, thus enabling him to make prompt and accurate returns. We would impress upon the ginners the fact that this agent is a sworn officer of the Government, and that their reports, as forwarded to him directly to the Census Office, at Washington, without intermediation through the hands of any party, will be held as strictly confidential, and the operations of individual ginners are not divulged. Upon the joint co-operation of the cotton growers, ginners, and local special agents, the success of the Census Office in this inquiry, and its ability to render this great service to the Southern people and to all interested in the cotton staple.

The Census Office has demonstrated in three annual reports, the fact that the ginners are the only reliable source of information as to the volume of the annual cotton crop. This is very complimentary to the ginners, who, no doubt, will feel a pride in sustaining the reputation earned. In recognition of this interest shown by the ginners, and of a general demand for more frequent reports through this source, Congress, in the act creating a permanent Census Office, authorized the collection and publication of these statistics at intervals during the ginning season. For the crop of 1902 the office will issue three reports: the first two will cover the quantity of cotton ginned up to and including October 15 and December 13, respectively; and the final report will cover the total quantity ginned from the growth of 1902.
